Amherst Heavier and Faster and Secures a Decisive Victory — Line Up — Other Games.

Our football team went down to overwhelming defeat at the hands of the Amherst team on Saturday. It was the first time in many years that Trinity was outplayed so completely by the representatives of the Massachusetts collegians, and the score, 40 to 0, truly shows the kind of football played by the two teams. Amherst started in the game with a dash and rush that carried our men off their feet, while the Trinity players apparently, with but one or two exceptions, forgot the principles of football that had been taught them during the fast few weeks and played an individual game, allowing their opponents to make repeated gains by taking advantage of our carelessness in all departments of the game.

The game started at 3.25 with our team defending the south goal. Landefeld kicked off for Trinity. Hubbard, of Amherst, ran the ball back 35 yards before he was downed. Amherst here showed the kind of game they were going to play by being up and off before our men were set. The first rush gained 15 yards through our line, a run around right end brought the ball fifty yards nearer our goal and a few rushes took it over. Pierce made the first touchdown and kicked.

On the next kick-off Trinity received the ball and carried it back ten yards, but, failing to gain, was forced to kick. With line plunges the Amherst backs and tackles carried the ball slowly down the field and a second touchdown was added in four minutes of play. The goal was kicked. The third touchdown was gained on line plunges and a long end run, which was due to the failure of several Trinity men to tackle the runner when they had the opportunity. This was noticeable in all of Amherst's long runs, our men either tackling too high, trying to push the man over, or missing the runner altogether.

After the next kick-off our team really showed its true form and made repeated gains through the left side of Amherst's line, carrying the ball almost fifty yards by this means. Donnelly showed great form both in carrying the ball and making openings for the runner. Poor judgment in directing the play lost the ball and a possible chance to score at this point. The ball was lost on downs, and Amherst, after another end run, soon scored her fourth touchdown. Time was called shortly after.

In the second half our team played better football and held the score down. Shortly after the opening of the half Shattuck made a long run, but the ball was brought back and the visitors penalized 20 yards for slugging. An exchange of punts followed and an end run scored another touchdown. On the next kick-off Trinity fumbled the ball and it was but a few seconds later when Amherst scored her sixth touchdown by means of line plunges. The goal was missed. A long run netted another touchdown but again goal was missed. Time ended a few minutes later after Amherst made an unsuccessful attempt at a goal from the field.

Resolutions of Faculty on Death of Dr. Pynchon.

At a special meeting of the Faculty, Friday, Professors McCook and Ferguson were appointed a committee to recommend suitable action on the death of Dr. T. R. Pynchon, lately professor and formerly president of the college.

The committee reported the following minute which was adopted by a rising vote.

The Faculty of Trinity college learn with sincere grief of the death of their late colleague and former head, Thomas Ruggles Pynchon, D. D., LL. D.

He is remembered by a few of us as a teacher, trained at home and abroad to accept the best results of the great modern movement in natural science and imparting them with patient skill to his pupils.

All of us recall, with a respect in which affection had its part, his painstaking devotion to official duty in its minutest details, his refinement, his urbanity, his cheerfulness, his dignity. He was to us a splendid specimen of the courtly scholar-gentleman of the old school.

After more than sixty years of loyal devotion to the college as student, tutor, professor, champion, librarian, and as president, his name was a little while ago taken from our active list and he retired for his well-earned rest.

And now he has gone on to his long repose.

We are glad for him and with him that the end came before the decay of age had become too obtrusive, and that it was unaccompanied by long or severe suffering. Such a conclusion befitted a life so calm and so innocent.

For ourselves and in behalf of the long line of his associates and his pupils we offer to his family our most respectful sympathies.

Voted, That the above be recorded with our minutes and given to the press, and that an authenticated copy be sent to the family.

Voted, That the Faculty will attend the funeral in a body.

Voted, That the college flag be set at half-mast and that it remain so until after the interment.

FUNERAL OF DR. PYNCHON.

The funeral of Dr. Pynchon was held Saturday afternoon at Trinity church, New Haven. The services were conducted by the Rev. Frank Woods Baker, rector of the church, assisted by President Luther and Prof. McCook. The honorary pall bearers were former President Geo. Williamson Smith, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Hart, Prof. Ferguson, Prof. Johnson, Prof. Riggs, and the Rev. J. T. Huntington, rector of St. James' church, Hartford. The burial was in Grove street cemetery. Prof. Babbitt, Prof. Martin, and Mr. Brenton of the Faculty, were in attendance. The Senior Class was represented by C. W. Remsen and C. H. Pelton. The Phi Kappa Chapter of Alpha Delta Phi was represented by C. M. Rhodes, D. M. Fackler, and B. C. Maercklein.

"Now Then—Trinity!"

"NOW THEN, — TRINITY!"

A true statement of affairs may hurt our pride, but it is better that the truth be told now than that the entire football season be a failure. Football practice has been going on for three weeks and it has taken the very hardest kind of work on the part of the football management, — coach, captain and manager, — to keep two teams out every day. In fact, true Trinity spirit has been lacking and something must be done. Two meetings have been held and it was hoped that the enthusiasm shown there would last more than twenty-four hours. But the hope has been dispelled and we are once more in the same old rut. What are you going to do, Trinity men? To use slang, it is up to you. It is your team, and the credit for victory or the disgrace of defeat rests upon you. Are you satisfied with the present condition of affairs? Are you satisfied to see your team go down to unnecessary defeat? Are you willing to go on in the same old way, losing game after game to teams which in the past have fallen before the Trinity elevens? Are you satisfied to sit on the bleachers and cheer when your opponents are penalized? Ask yourself these and similar questions. It seems that we are going backward in some things, and this is not right. Trinity has the opportunity to go forward and it only seems just and right that the undergraduate should do his share in the forward movement. It is up to him to give up his easy-going ways, his self-satisfaction, his imaginary superiority over all others, and, coming down to earth, to realize that victories are not won by useless cheering and yelling at meetings. Let us turn some of our energy into channels that will result in some good coming to our Alma Mater. It is up to every man in College to support the football team from now on. The overwhelming defeat on Saturday can be traced to lack of spirit on the part of the undergraduates. Seldom has there been more than fifteen or twenty men down on the field to watch practice, and only twice have cheers been given for the players. Men have been allowed to drop from the squad without any good reason, — in fact there is little or no spirit here, and the sooner we realize it the better it will be for us. We have material from which a good team can be developed and a good coach and captain, but true spirit must be developed. Every man must feel it his privilege, as well as his duty, to do something for the team. Let us get together, and, by our united efforts, make the team a success. Let us get out in togs and give the team practice. Let us cheer the men on, and, by our presence on the field, show them we are back of them. Let us be TRINITY MEN.

CRITICISM OF THE TEAM.

During the season THE TRIPOD will give short criticisms of the team's work in the games. The criticism will be given in a true Trinity spirit and with the hope that the team will be benefited thereby. It might be said in explanation that the criticisms are based on the judgment of a football player of some experience, who is not connected with the team in any way. In the first place, the men did not show the old "do-or-die" spirit manifested by former Trinity teams. Instead, they allowed their opponents to come at them. Each man seemed to be afraid of the ball. Instead of falling on the ball he tried to pick it up, with the usual result, — a fumble, and the ball kicked into the arms of a waiting opponent. At least one touchdown resulted from this kind of work. Then, the men waited for their opponents to fall on the ball after a fumble instead of falling on it themselves. Very often an Amherst player fell on the ball, and, getting on his feet, carried the ball ten or even fifteen yards before he was downed. Poor tackling allowed the opponents to gain at least two and possibly three touchdowns. Amherst undoubtedly had the better team, played the faster game, was in better condition, and had the advantage of weight, but even with these advantages should have scored only two touchdowns, or three at the most. The men charged too high in the line and the floaters did not follow the play as they should have done. It does not seem possible that any man who entered that game was afraid, but it is a sure fact that several men did not get into the plays in the right manner. The instructions of the coach were not obeyed and the men did not go into the game with the spirit that wins games. True Trinity spirit was lacking. It must be acquired, or the season will be a failure.

CLASSES IN THE INAUGURATION NUMBER.

THE TRIPOD now has photographs from representatives of nearly all the classes that Trinity has graduated, dating from 1841. This is good work. In this connection it will be interesting to note how the classes compare in point of numbers in this issue and it will also furnish proof of the value of class secretaries if the classes having these are more united and make a better showing than the others.

The undergraduate classes will be invited to insert their pictures taken in a body wearing their gowns and will doubtless comply. Another interesting photograph will be the picture of the procession and views of the decorated buildings will not be omitted.

Sufficient photographs already have been received to warrant the publication of the book and they are coming in rapidly.

In line with the suggestion offered by THE TRIPOD in an early issue, the course of lectures on anatomy, physiology and hygiene by Dr. Edwards, will be given at an early date instead of next spring. This is most gratifying news, and we thank Dr. Edwards, who is entirely responsible for the change.

PATRONIZING ADVERTISERS.

The subject of patronizing advertisers is a worn one and yet we feel that just one point remains to be made in that connection. Of course you will patronize those who advertise in our publications for by so doing you can help your college, but in doing this don't fail to make yourself known as a Trinity man. Otherwise your pains are wasted. Engage whoever waits upon you in conversation and point out the fact to him that your trade is of value. The men who are at this college spend the larger portion of the year here and therefore spend a great deal of money in Hartford stores. This is usually unappreciated by the merchants because the students are careless about making themselves known. Remedy this in the future and help assist your college publications for they are a necessary part of your student life.

LETTER FROM COMMITTEE OF ARRANGEMENTS FOR INAUGURATION.

TRINITY COLLEGE.

HARTFORD, Sept. 28, 1904.

DEAR SIR:

At last, after years of waiting, the tide has turned. The Freshman Class, numbering over sixty, is the largest that has ever entered Trinity, and more men are enrolled than ever before in the history of the College.

The Inauguration of President Luther will take place on Wednesday, October 26th at 10.30 o'clock, in Parsons' Theater. The principal addresses will be made by President Hadley of Yale and President Luther. Following the Inauguration there will be a dinner in Alumni Hall at 2 P. M. As this of necessity will be limited to the seating capacity of the hall, only a limited number of tickets can be sold; price $2 each. Applications will be filed in order received. The after-dinner speaking will be a feature of the day. In the afternoon there will be a football game. The President will hold a reception at his residence from 5 until 9, during which time the College grounds will be illuminated.

We want every Trinity man, who can possibly do so, to return and help make the Inauguration of President Luther a rousing jubilee. It will do you good and help Trinity.

Yours truly,

F. E. HAIGHT,

49 Leonard st., N. Y. City.

MEMORIAL SERMON ON DR. PYNCHON.

"Faithfulness in a Quiet Life," the Substance of a Sermon by President Luther in College Chapel.

President Luther preached a memorial sermon on the Rev. Dr. Pynchon in College chapel Sunday morning. His text was: "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."—Rev. ii: 10. He spoke in part as follows: This is a favorite text of those sorely tried. With it we comfort ourselves and each other in great emergencies. The context justifies us in so doing, for the church in Smyrna, to whom the spirit sent this message, was in great distress. So the words make us think of battles and spectacular heroism and martyrdom.

Yet the words may apply to quieter times and simpler lives. For faithfulness unto death is, thank God, not an uncommon quality among men. And it is about the highest of all qualities; or, at least, it is that without which other virtues become ineffective. Faithfulness—the word stands for trustworthiness, reliability, persistence, self-sacrifice, permanence of character. He who is faithful is fit to be God's ally or His vice-regent. It seems to me that faithfulness was the predominant element in the saintly character of our elder brother whose body was yesterday committed to the ground. All his sweetness and gentleness, his courtesy, his dignity, were energized by that faithfulness which made him take up each duty of his long life and discharge it with absolute devotion. He has occupied nearly every position in our College possible to one individual, and in every one was faithful.

A certain separateness marked him also. We could not think of him as doing many of the things, good and evil, which the rest of us do without thought or self-restraint. So simple was his code, so close to the fundamental heart of things, that his influence was that of an elemental moral force. More than once have I known him to recall his colleagues to clear perception of duty by statements as simple as that two and two make four; when perhaps, blinded by considerations of supposed expediency, we were half persuaded that two and two might make five, "just for once."

The sweet life has been a benediction in Trinity College for more than half a century. He was loved by more Trinity men, no doubt, than any other one of us. None of us but will cherish, all our lives, the memory of his quiet but powerful personality. The college generations move so swiftly that we older men are startled to find that only one class now in college can remember him as an active member of the faculty. But he was, and, is the brother of us all, old and young, and the fruitage of his kindly faithfulness is our common inheritance. Now that he is gone the perspective changes, and we cease to think of him as old. He is one whose earthly work is done. So he takes his place beside the boy whose early death shocked us six months ago. Both lives were complete, both faithful unto death. The freshman and the aged professor alike finished their course in faith and together ask God for his new commands in the wonderful new life of eternity. The flag they carried drops from the dead mortal hand, to be seized and carried forward by ourselves. Let us see that we pass it on unstained and spotless, still bearing luminously the legend, "Truth, Honor, Self-sacrifice, Faithfulness."

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co.

AN INTERESTING FACT.

On the 1st of March, 1904, THE CONNECTICUT MUTUAL reached a stage in its history very interesting to its management and its members and one which is unique in the history of American Life Insurance.

On that date, but little more than fifty-eight years from its organization, it had received from its members in premiums the sum of $228,376,268, and had returned to them or their beneficiaries $228,724,073, or $347,805 more than it had received from them.

The Connecticut Mutual is the first American Life Insurance Company to return to its members one hundred per cent. of its receipt from them. And it holds besides $65,000,000 of assets, with a surplus of over $4,600,000 to protect over 70,000 policy-holders insured for over $166,000,000.

WESLEYAN LOSES FORBES.

Forbes, captain of the Wesleyan team, has resigned and left Wesleyan to enter Yale. Forbes has had considerable difficulty with the Faculty, being prevented from playing last year owing to conditions. Despite this fact he was elected captain of this year's team. He "passed off" all of his work except solid geometry, and upon the refusal of the Faculty to give him a re-examination in that subject, he took the above mentioned action. In Forbes, Wesleyan loses one of the best football players in the East. He was noted for his strong defensive playing. His work against Trinity two years ago is still fresh in the minds of those who witnessed the game.
